

Targeting youth: The Sister Thea Bowman Music Academy

BY DORIS BENAVIDES
Staff Writer

It's brainstorming time in a St. Bernadette School's classroom. Teacher Sheryl Lange throws a question.

"What are other things that could help communicate who we are and who is Sister Thea Bowman?"

A dozen or so young female students remain quiet and reflective during the May 19 morning session.

"Let's emphasize what Sister Thea Bowman did," adds Lange, "and relate it to our lives today. What would she be doing today?"

It is the first staff-and-students meeting of the newly founded Sister Thea Bowman Youth Music Academy at St. Bernadette School, convened to plan their next performance during Black Catholic History Month in November. The first performance, "Living Stations of the Cross," was offered on Good Friday, April 6.

A long awaited project, the Academy came to fruition thanks to a three-year grant from the Dorothy F. Coleman Foundation, according to Anderson Shaw, director of the archdiocesan African American Catholic Center for Evangelization. The center will oversee the new program designed for teenagers who can enroll for free with parental consent.

"This is all about evangelization," said Audrey Ina Shaw, the academy's program administrator, after showing a video of Sister Bowman's lectures throughout the country.

"Our mission is to keep these kids in the Church," she continued, "and Thea Bowman is a great example of how to communicate with others through music."

The idea is to follow in the footsteps of the late Franciscan Sister of Perpetual Adoration, a Catholic convert and former director of Black Catholic Studies at New Orleans' Xavier University. Sister Bowman (who died in 1990 at age 62) often illustrated her lectures — including those at the Los Angeles Religious Education Congress — with Old and New Testament stories adapted to music and skits.

Academy staff includes Eddie Hilley, program coordinator and veteran music director at St. Agatha Church; Chris Nuno, music director; musician Lauren Warner, and Lange and Debra Parson, dance coordinators.

The program is coordinated with parishes serving the African American community,

DORIS BENAVIDES

ARTISTS — Members of the newly founded Sister Thea Bowman Youth Music Academy gather at St. Bernadette School May 19.

said Veronica Tatenco, a 15-year-old sophomore and longtime Holy Name parishioner. "This helps us grow in our faith and to become role models to other teenagers."

She and her friends, twins Angelica and Mahalia Chew, said that because of their involvement in parish choir, their peers look up to them. Some, they added, have even sought their advice when confronted with use of drugs or other difficulties.

Brittany Blount, another Holy Name parishioner, said the new Academy provides an opportunity to "spend time together in faith" instead of "running around doing nothing. We all can see that there are others who actually care for you." TD

For more information about the African American Catholic Center for Evangelization, call (323) 777-2106 or visit www.aac-cfe.com.

such as Holy Name of Jesus and St. Bernadette whose pastors, Fathers Paul Spellman and Allan Roberts, respectively, have been "very supportive," said Shaw.

But participants do not necessarily have to attend a Catholic parish or be of African American descent.

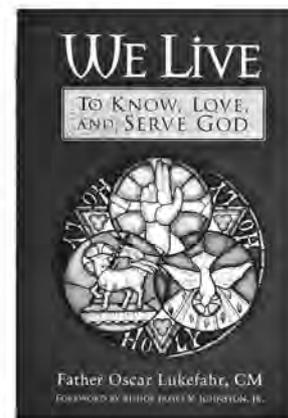

"I came because I like acting," said newcomer Aeron Walker, 13, an eighth grader at Gardena Valley Christian School. "I thought this was very educational."

"It's important that other youth come to see what we do and make a difference,"

Why are you here? Why did God make you?

"God made me to know him, to love him, and to serve him in this world, and to be happy with him forever in heaven."

These questions and others can be answered by enrolling in a FREE correspondence course offered by the Missouri Knights of Columbus and Catholic Home Study Service.

✂ cut here

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS
RELIGIOUS INFORMATION BUREAU
PO BOX 363
PERRYVILLE, MO 63775-0363
(573) 547-4084

Please send We Live: To Know, Love, and Serve God

I will send my workbook answers: by internet by mail (check one)

When you complete a course, you may take another

(Please Print)

NAME (circle one)

TID12

Mr. Mrs. Miss Ms. _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY _____

STATE _____

ZIP _____

To enroll, complete and mail the form above. There is no cost or obligation.

Or Enroll Online: www.amm.org/chss/chss.asp

If you are a single Catholic woman ages 18-40...

Join Us!

Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul

Totally Given to God in Community in a Spirit of Humility, Simplicity and Charity for the Service of those who are Poor since 1633.

Come and See!
Religious Vocation Discernment Retreat
September 14-16, 2012 Los Altos Hills, CA

FOR MORE INFORMATION, CONTACT:
Sr. Lisa Laguna, D.C.

650-949-8890 213-210-9903 SrLisaDC@aol.com

DAUGHTERS-OF-CHARITY.COM

Called to Serve the Poor Since 1633.

